

Vikki McMillan

Upon Vikki's first meeting with Brian he invited her to ride an elephant with him. Thinking this was the most original pick up line – she called his bluff. Two years later they were married and started "Hollywood Animals".

Vikki's career started in film production working as a production coordinator line producer and editor in New York. She works closely with directors and producers. Vikki's experience as an animal coordination and knowledge in acquiring and maintaining international permits, animal travel, consulting and working within production's budget requirements is incomparable. She has coordinated worldwide tours with over 20 animals at time with lions, tigers and leopards.

She has endless resources for reputable animal brokers, freight forwarders, government animal agencies and animal insurance. Her years experience has helped 100's of production companies in money and time.

Seeing a need to pass on their experience and knowledge in animal husbandry and training she started Hollywood Animals Exotic Animal Training School. She put together the only animal training school curriculum that specializes in practical hands on instruction.

She has raised all the animals owned by Hollywood Animals and Walking with Lions and has an extensive knowledge in cub rearing.

Her production skills combined with Brian's animal talents has made Hollywood Animals and Walking with Lions the foremost animal companies in the industry.